

Become a Community Based Training Work Site

The Employment Services Division at Mountain State Centers for Independent Living (MTSTCIL) / Foundation for Independent Living (FIL) works with people with disabilities to provide job training and supports to enable them to find a job or to reenter the work force after becoming disabled.

The Employment Services Division works with people with disabilities to help them develop an employment goal, receive training, attend classes and create a resume as well as gain the skills necessary to successfully seek and retain competitive employment.

As a Community Based Training work site, individuals who are participating in the vocational training program will have the opportunity to train at your work site at no cost to you. The individuals participating in this program are considered as trainees and are not compensated during their training period by you or by the Employment Services Division.

There is no guarantee of employment at the end of the training period. Employment Services Division staff will be onsite for the duration of the training program and document the participant's job performance every two weeks.

Support or intervention services will be available to the participant at the training site on an as needed basis. These services will be provided by Employment Services Division staff.

At the end of the training period if you decide to offer paid employment to the trainee, Employment Services Division will work with you to provide direct placement or supported employment services on behalf of the trainee.

Upon request, Employment Services Division staff is available to provide support to you as the employer, as well as to the person you employ, during the duration of the employee's employment.

Visit our Web site (mtstcil.org) to learn more about the Employment Services Division and the services we offer.

If you are interested in learning more about the Community Based Training program, contact Brenda Goodfellow, Vice President for Programs for Mountain State at 304-652-2116 or email her at bgoodfellow@mtstcil.org.

---

Mountain State Centers for Independent Living
Foundation for Independent Living

821 Fourth Avenue
Huntington, WV 25701
304-525-3324

329 Prince Street
Beckley, WV 25801
304-255-0122